What does the research say?

Mastering a proper typing technique does not mean simply learning to type faster. It frees up the mind's resources to focus on the more complex mental processes required for writing (Johansson 2009). Students write better texts when they type frequently and with ease on computers (Wideman 2000 and Owston 1997).

The quality of texts written on keyboards is also higher than that of texts written by hand (Crook 2007). Furthermore, researchers recommend that students learn a proper typing technique as early as possible (Wichter 1997), especially via brief and frequently repeated sessions of approximately 15 minutes over the course of more than one school year (Losier 2002). So wait no longer. Start using Typing Pal today with your students!
